Dion Boucicault (1820-1890) was one of the most prominent playwrights of the 19th century. He was also a renowned actor, director, and theatrical manager whose work shaped European and American theatre as we know it today.

Born Dionysius Lardner Boursiquot in Dublin, Ireland; Boucicault’s mother, Anne Darley, was from a prominent Irish family. His last name comes from her husband, Samuel Boursiquot, but his father was likely the scholar Dionysius Lardner. In 1828, Darley and her children moved with Lardner to London.

Boucicault began acting in 1837. He produced his first play, London Assurance, at Covent Garden in 1841. It was an immediate success, catapulting the young playwright to sudden prominence and wealth, which he quickly squandered. He followed the success of London Assurance with two other extremely popular works: Used Up and Old Heads and Young Hearts, and in 1845, he married a wealthy older widow, Anne Guiot; but his financial mismanagement continued and he declared bankruptcy in 1848. The first major scandal of his personal life was his wife’s disappearance between 1846 and 1848.

In 1853, Boucicault traveled to New York and married actress Agnes Robertson. Together, they toured his plays across the USA, where he was widely popular. In the USA, he was instrumental in passing the first copyright law for drama in 1856, and he staged the first-ever matinee performance a year later. This period introduced several of his most beloved plays, including The Poor of New York, The Octoroon, and The Colleen Bawn, along with major technical innovations in stagecraft, including trap doors and fireproof scenery. Boucicault’s ventures into theatrical management were less successful; he opened and closed theaters in New Orleans, New York, and Washington DC.

In 1860, the Boucicault family returned to London, where Boucicault planned to open a new theater. However, his partners withdrew after his affair with a married woman became public, forcing him to declare bankruptcy again in 1863. He completed two of his most famous works during this time, Arrah-na-Pogue and The Shaughraun, performing in both. His sympathetic performances of these plays’ complex Irish characters revolutionized the way Irish people were portrayed on the British stage.

In 1872, Boucicault returned to the United States. His relationship with Agnes soured and costly unresolved divorce proceedings forced him to sell the rights to his most successful works. On a trip to Australia in 1885, he bigamously married the twenty-one-year-old actress Louise Thorndyke. By the time of Boucicault’s death in 1890, he was working as an acting teacher in New York City.
Holiday Greetings!

It's hard to ignore the universal themes always at the top of our list but especially during the holidays! Family. Lost Loves. And for good or bad, money. Twenty years ago, in the wake of 9/11, when we first presented The Streets of New York, those things were as present and as urgent as they are today...but now there's another twist — a worldwide pandemic has reared its ugly head and interrupted our celebration.

We had a choice. We could hunker down, be silent and wait it out, or we could meet it head-on and do what we do best. We have chosen to meet it head-on and celebrate with music and fun and laughter...and we thank you from the bottom of our hearts for making that choice with us.

Our lives might have changed for a while, but our priorities have not. We hold our traditions and our families dearer to our hearts than ever, and we honor the season together with songs and laughter and joy!

HAVE A VERY HAPPY CHRISTMAS AND A JOYOUS AND SAFE NEW YEAR!

Love,

When you support Irish Rep as part of your legacy, you join those most dedicated to maintaining our mission: understanding the contemporary Irish-American experience through evocative works of theater, music, and dance, and you ensure that we remain a home for high-quality theatre New Yorkers and devotees of Irish culture.

All those who make a legacy gift are invited to join the Frank McCourt Legacy Circle, named for the longtime Irish Rep company member whose Pulitzer Prize-winning memoir, Angela’s Ashes, catapulted him to fame. The Legacy Circle stems from Frank’s dedication and generosity to the theatre throughout his life and recognizes those who make a legacy gift to ensure Irish Rep’s strong future.

As a member of the Frank McCourt Legacy Circle, you are eligible to receive the following benefits:

- Invitations to annual McCourt Circle luncheon and matinee performance
- McCourt Circle Listing in every Irish Rep program
- Commemorative McCourt Circle lapel pin

In memory of our dear friend...

The entire Irish Repertory Theatre family mourns the loss of our dear friend and supporter, Stephen Sondheim.

Charlotte and Ciarán
Contrary to popular belief, Jackie was only 1/8 French. Her mother’s family hailed from County Cork, and the Irish pride that her mother bequeathed to her propelled her success throughout her life.

On the side of a carraig mhór, in Teelin, a small fishing village in southwestern Donegal, a love of Ireland was born and bred so strong, it lives on across the sea in our own Carrick Mór.

Join us in sharing the beauty, craftsmanship, intelligence, and passion of a land and heritage we cherish.

Let us all Be Mór Irish.
